American Girl Beats Prince Of Wales
In Golf Game

Many girls have won fame by dancing with the Prince of Wales, but only one has beaten him at golf. She is Miss Beate Grottel, of New York, who recently returned home with a box of golf balls given her by the heir to England's throne in token of her victory. Miss Grottel said the Prince differs from other men golfers inasmuch as his favorite ejaculation of both pleasure and annoyance is "Sporty". (Central Press)

HAVANA STRIKE IS CONTINUED

(International News Service)
HAVANA, Aug. 21.—Naval machine gunners patrolled the docks of Havana Harbor today as the government pressed efforts to end the harbor workers' strike which has tied up Cuban commerce for weeks. Reports circulated that government pressure would end the three-week strike today, but these could not be officially confirmed. Increased scarcity of imported goods, food, clothing and newsprint caused additional hardship, and one newspaper was closed for lack of paper.

(Special To The News)
CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—My friend, Johnson, the code man, was going too fast so I left him. His code for himself and staff is 35 hours, (not a week but 35 a day.) If he ever goes to sleep he won't wake up till Christmas.

Here is the best one happened in Washington. All the big oil men of course were there, and that of course meant a big poker game. Anytime two oil men meet, they don't open a fil-

Then in another room the lawyers have a crap game.

In the poker game, for the the table, no checks. They didn't trust each other. That's their new code. The lawyers used their same old code of cash.

They had never trusted each other.

For the purpose of examining ap-today. At 10 o'clock this morning he conducted an examination for

"The federal government has that ruling we are employing a

"A paid corps of workers does a said Mr. Gordon. "With them it is

Adoption Of Coal And Auto Codes Sought

Johnson Hopes To Have The Codes For Giant Indus-

STEEL AND OIL
CODES ADOPTED

Nation Wide Blue Eagle
Campaign Will Be Started August 28

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Adoption of codes of fair competition for the turbulent bituminous coal and the giant automobile industries, with a coal code predicted this week, today became the goal of National Recovery Administrator Hugh H. Johnson.

Having brought the steel and oil industries under codes, although reluctantly and somewhat on a trial basis, Johnson quickened the drive to bring the key industries under the act speedily.

Major industries for which codes have been proclaimed include textiles, lumber, steel, oil and shipbuilding. Every effort was being made to enlarge the list before the nationwide blue eagle campaign opens on August 28 with 1,500,000 volunteer workers.

After having presented the steel and oil codes to President Roosevelt in his bedroom as he was preparing to leave Washington Saturday night, Johnson resumed his battle with the bituminous coal magnates and expected to confer with them almost continuously until the fight is settled.

The automobile code was being prepared for presentation to manufacturers following a hearing, with indications that the modified open shop clause would be stricken and minimum wages proposed by the manufacturers increased.

Biggest Problem
The hardest problem faced by the recovery administration was with the coal industry. Twenty-eight group codes must be replaced with one national code, recognizing and providing for regional differences.
Johnson informed the operators.

FOUR PERSONS BURN TO DEATH IN TRUCK CRASH

destroyed. Their occupants leaped to safety and were unharmed. The truck, its floor packed with straw, was owned by Watson and driven by his brother, Preston. Between 20 and 30 picnickers were returning from an outing at White Crystal Beach on the eastern shore of Maryland.

The truck loaded with the explosive was driven by Henry Knott, 27, of Rockdale, Md. It was owned by the Tri-City Freight Line of Baltimore.

Explosives Truck Crashed Into Rear of Knott's truck. Both vehicles overturned. The straw was ignited. In a moment the explosion let go.

Flaming cellulose and blazing gasoline showered the trapped victims. Screaming for aid, those who could extricate themselves from the wreckage ran to nearby fields. They rolled in the grass in an attempt to extinguish the flames.

Passing motorists came to their aid. Automobiles parked near the fire-swept wreckage by rescuers were damaged. The roadway for almost 100 feet was a mass of flames.

The dead were found buried under the charred embers of the picnic truck.

Blast Terrific. The force of the blast hurled others into the air for a distance of several feet.

State police were first on the scene. They summoned every available ambulance from Wilmington.

In the early morning dawn they searched the fields for victims.

Fire companies from Wilmington and Chester and Marcus Hook, Pa., sped to the scene.

Rescuers for more than half an hour were unable to approach the blazing wreckage because of the fear of further explosion, the heat was so intense they were held at bay for a radius of more than 25 feet.

After dousing the wreckage with water and chemicals the firemen began to dig for victims. The bodies of the four found were sent to the Wilmington morgue. Identification was not made until other of the victims were brought into town.

Several passing motorists who aided in the rescue work were burned. They were treated on the scene and departed before authorities obtained their names.

Norman Davis, this government's roving ambassador of peace, was to come here Tuesday for dinner, with Mrs. Davis. On Wednesday, the president will visit a boy scout camp up in this section of the state. These are the only engagements the president has made since arriving here early Sunday morning.

Mr. Roosevelt was watching developments on the coal code carefully. At first, Johnson expected to get the completed coal code before the president for his signature on Saturday night, but the myriad controversies holding up it blocked this expected progress. Mr. Roosevelt signed the oil and steel codes before leaving Washington for his home here.

Mr. Roosevelt is very much pleased at the progress already made by Johnson on the basic industrial codes. He feels that his recovery program is moving forward rapidly, and expects an optimistic report on the basic codes from Johnson shortly.

Chaplain Stanley Wilcox, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Chester, concluded the day's activities with religious services. Sergeant Harvey Brown, Troop K, Lock Haven, was taken to Lebanon hospital with a fractured right arm received in a fall from a truck.

Agents Gather For Picnic At Yohe Saturday

Two Hundred P. & L. E. Agents And Families Have Annual Outing At Camp

Giving business the back seat for the day, 200 ticket and freight agents from all points of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad system and their families, gathered on Saturday at Camp Yohe, the P. & L. E. Y. M. C. A. camp on the Slippery Rock creek.

It was a great day at the camp, a day that only comes once a year. F. M. Brown, P. & L. E. superintendent, his wife, and many other high officials of the road, were present and took part in the day's activities. Some arrived in the morning, others in the afternoon. A number of the agents and officials enjoyed a round of golf at the New Castle Field club in the morning before going to the camp grounds.

In a fast and interesting ball game the agents showed their sporting superiority over the general office employees of Pittsburgh by a 16 to 2 victory. Meanwhile the ladies were matching wits in bridge playing. The final score showed Mrs. George Joy, of Beaver Falls, ahead, for her wint the prize.

Other sports, music and dancing in the large barn nearby made the day a full one. Dinner, furnished by the "Y," was served at six o'clock.

In addition to F. M. Brown and his wife from Beaver, the officials present included J. P. Kelley, assistant superintendent, and family, E. E. Smith, general passenger agent, of Beaver, J. E. Hughes, general agent, of Youngstown, J. L. O'Toole, assistant general manager, of Pittsburgh, M. E. Green, chief clerk to Vice President C. M. Yohe, and wife, of Beaver, Charles Gates, secretary to Vice President Yohe, Beaver, R. E. Hanna, chief clerk for the superintendent, of Pittsburgh, F. C. Smith, supervising agent, and many others.

M. A. Blicket, president of the association, of Ellwood City, was there. Agents from Monessen, McKeesport, New Castle and everywhere on the entire system took part in the day's activities.

St. Mary's Holy Name Society Holds Picnic On Sunday

Large Group Of Men Participate In Event Held At Ellhurst On Butler Road

Members of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church held their first annual picnic on Sunday at Ellhurst on the Butler road, with some three hundred men in attendance. It was a decidedly successful affair and was featured by a program of sports and a picnic supper. The greater part of the day was spent at the scene of the outing by a greater part of those attending.

In the sports contests, the single men defeated the married men in the mullball contest by the score of 2 to 1. The married men won the tug-of-war. Father Leo S. Watterson was the winner of the Fat Men's Race and James Todd was the winner of the three-legged race.

The success of the affair was due to the efforts of Hugh Dougherty, the general chairman, Joseph R. Guilfoyl, president of the society, James Carey, the secretary, Vincent Wadlinger and Bernard Rogan, who were in charge of the refreshments and Francis Reif who was in charge of the sports.

mun price provisions were to be written into a code by the recovery administration following the precedent set in codes for the lumber and oil industries.

The price fixing and production provisions of the lumber and oil codes were regarded as significantly indicative of the determination of President Roosevelt to bring natural resource industries, burdened with surpluses, firmly under the authority of the government.

There was a strong possibility that a temporary code would be agreed to for the coal industry. A precedent also has been established for this in acceptance of the steel code.

Plan N R A Drive

The battle between union labor and advocates of the open shop seethed under cover as the big industry codes were being written. Thus far Johnson has shown no sign of deviating from the policy of incorporating provisions of the national recovery act which guarantee the right of collective bargaining.

While the fight for big industry code was on, plans for the national N R A drive beginning a week from today were outlined.

Charles F. Horner, in charge of the campaign, declared 1,500,000 volunteer workers, including some of the nation's most widely known citizens, would co-operate. Radio, movie and stage stars were enlisted. The "big names" obtained by Horner include former Governor Alfred E. Smith, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Walter Chrysler, President Glenn Frank of Wisconsin University, Lewis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, and General W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad.

H. W. McIlvenny County Candidate

Announces Candidacy For Nomination For Register And Recorder

Life long resident of New Castle, married, wife and two children and the son of J. Herb McIlvenny of the 7th Ward.

Has the ordinary qualifications for this office namely Common Sense and Honesty, and a willingness to co-operate with the people and officers of Lawrence Co., in keeping the expenses of this office at a minimum.

Through a study of Life Insurance I am familiar with the handling of records and I have made a study of wills, trusts and estates made necessary by this work.

I am heartily in accord with the present administration in their attempt to do something for the man who is out of work, for I realize his position as keenly as he does himself, knowing what it means to have the monthly income reduced and finally discontinued altogether.

Being a taxpayer and trying to pay for a home, and having my income almost discontinued I realize the position of the man whose taxes are in the red.

The business man, the farmer, the office holder and the wage earner must work to the common good of all, and that voters of Lawrence Co., is what I am willing to do if elected to this office.

Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated and your confidence kept secure.

At her death the corpus of the estate is to go to her sister-in-law, Carrie E. Crawford, and brother-in-law, Joseph E. Crawford.

To Attorney Thomas W. Dickey and the Union Trust company, as trustees, is left $12,000, the income of which is to be paid to decedent's friend, Ruth L. Umson, during her lifetime. The trustees have the right to invest in such securities as they see fit.

RELIEF PROBER BEING EMPLOYED

the statements made by the applicant were true, whether conditions were as they were set out to be, and as a result much relief money was given out in places where it should not have been.

"This is no criticism of the volunteer workers. They offer their time and energies free of charge, but the very fact that there is no compelling urge to be thorough is one of the reasons why relief rolls have mounted. We have found that where paid investigators are used the relief demands have been reduced materially, many times the amount of money used to pay the investigators."

Recently the state and federal government notified the Lawrence county emergency relief board that the distribution of relief here would be taken over by them. In the future all applications for relief will be handled through the offices in the Woods building instead of the county poor office.

PREDICTING 800 M. P. H. SPEED

WATCHING from the security of the houseposts, the thoroughly alarmed populace was surprised to see crew and passengers on the first railroad train emerge alive after their adventurous journey. And when it was predicted that some day steam would carry a human cargo at the breakneck speed of 15 miles an hour there were timid souls who said the human body could not survive such speed.

How times have changed! The other day Wiley Post casually remarked that airplanes will eventually attain a speed of 800 miles an hour and nobody doubted him enough to contradict him. Such things are taken for granted today.

Man has ascended 10 miles into the stratosphere and is preparing to climb still higher. If he fails at first, the public knows that it is merely a question of time before he succeeds.

The heavier-than-air flying machine was made possible by the internal combustion or gasoline engine. The gasoline engine may prove unequal to a speed of 800 miles an hour, but that will not stop the aeronautical engineers any more than Langley's early experiments were stopped because his first engine was too heavy. The gasoline motor will not be the last development in the science of locomotion.

PLAYING INTENSELY

An ever changing panorama is America at play. The role of fashion is nowhere revealed more clearly than in the changing recreational activities of the masses.

While the opportunities for play of other generations seem decidedly limited in comparison with those of today, no generation of America was ever too busy or too puritanical to play. And in fair weather or foul we will always be a play-loving people.

Examine our play history. Bear-baiting, dog fighting, to cock fighting, to boxing, to prize fighting. What to auction, to contract. Mah-Jong to cross-word puzzles, to jig-saw puzzles. From the horse to the bicycle, to the automobile and back to the horse again. Baseball and football and golf have had an evolution all their own. Tennis has been with us a long time.

The main difference between recreation in the United States and recreation in other countries is the multiplicity of games, sports, amusements and diversions widely available to all classes of Americans. More than any other people we like variety and novelty. Without deserting the old standbys the public is quick to take up anything new in the way of recreation and amusement and just as quick to drop the passing fad.

As in all things the American people are extravagant in their pursuit of pleasure. During the era of prosperity they cultivated the most extravagant recreational tastes, both individually and collectively, with the result that many individuals and communities and clubs are now bankrupt.

MARITAL HOROSCOPE

There is at least one scientist optimistic enough to predict that the success of the marriage of the future will be foretold. That is, couples in love will be able to calculate on paper whether their marriage will be one of those from church-to-court affairs or a lifetime contract.

Dr. Leonard S. Cottrell, Jr., of Chicago University, has developed a "marriage horoscope" which he claims seldom fails to read aright the connubial course.

Some of the pertinent questions his horoscope puts to the inquisitive couple are: Do husband and wife engage in outside interests together? Do husbands and wife agree on family finance, religion, table manners, ways of dealing with in-laws? Are the mothers-in-law living? Did the father of either oppose the marriage? Is either an only child?

The scientist has discovered that when a father opposes a marriage it seldom succeeds, but that a mother's opposition is a good sign of marital happiness. The only child makes a poor mate. Too many brothers and sisters are a handicap, as are parents-in-law. Couples with different outside interests usually are not interested in each other for long.

This is all very good and should prove very helpful if life ever begins producing lovers who earnestly want to know the worst. Lovers can be induced to consult the "marriage horoscope" but where is there one who will abide by the warnings of the oracle?

STILL ANOTHER NEW STAMP

During the past few years the Post Office Department has been good to stamp collectors. It has put forth an unusual number of new issues. The latest is the NRA three-cent stamp, of which there are to be four hundred million. They made their first appearance at Washington on Tuesday, and their second at Nira, a little village in Iowa, on Thursday. Soon they will presumably be on sale at every post office in the country. Four hundred million does not appear to be too many to supply the anticipated demand.

The most extensive issue was that of last year to commemorate the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Every denomination from one cent to ten was represented, engraved in each case from a different portrait. Several of these were obviously superior to the profile long used on the two-cent stamp, which is apparently to be dropped for good. The three-cent stamp still carries the Stuart portrait, probably the best of all. Washington will doubtless be replaced in time by some of those who were disappointed in his honor. Franklin, at least, should have the one-cent stamp again. When the supply of the five-cent Olympic stamps has run out we shall doubtless have back Theodore Roosevelt.

Among the more interesting of the recent issues are those which commemorated Yorktown and Valley Forge. Two national heroes of foreign birth had an appropriate place—Pulaski and Von Steuben. The Pulaski stamp carried the Polish flag, the only instance of the sort. The Lake Placid issue was apparently not so widely used, nor that of the Olympian Games at Los Angeles. The last preceding issue was in commemoration of the Chicago fair, which is still drawing large crowds. A Century of Progress certainly deserved this much recognition.

What will come next? The president is himself a collector, and he may be trusted to see to it that no conspicuous occasion escapes.

The state right that seems most highly valued is the right to federal aid.

Science proves insects have no sense of time, and picnic lunch time proves they do.

You can always tell when a book is improving your mind. You begin to yawn at page 6.

BY MARSHALL MASLIN

THE SCAR

IT SEEMED for a while as if it would last forever, as if that small child would carry that cruel reminder all of her life from then in to the grave. . . . Reminding her always of that cruel experience.

She had been terribly burned and her small cheek had been laid wide open in a ghastly wound. The bloody lips of that wound had been sewed together and the wound had healed, but the scar was there and it ran pitilessly across her face and might never go away.

Forever it would be there.

Forever, whenever she looked in her mirror, she would see it.

Forever, her friends, acquaintances, strangers, seeing her would see it first and fix their eyes curiously upon it and the unspoken question would be on their lips. How did you get that scar? Does it bother you much? Can you have it taken off? Always the curiosity, always the questions. . . . They wouldn't see her eyes, nor her mouth, nor her hair. Nothing but the scar.

They'd not hear what she said. . . . She would be forever the little-girl-with-the-scar and then the young woman-with-the-scar and finally the grown-up-woman-with-the-scar.

Always the scar would stand between her and life. She might not mind it so much, might say nothing about it, might pretend it made no difference, its existence would be just one more thing to fight against, and there are so many things to fight and one more enemy might be just one too many.

But the scar is gone! Under the capable hands of a surgeon who knew his business it was taken away. If you looked closely now, you would see only a thin white line and nothing more.

It's a blessed thing to lose a scar. A blessing for a little girl who might have been made unhappy by this one across her face. A blessing for any man or woman who had a scar somewhere and was constantly reminded, by it, of grief and humiliations or some searing experience, and finds at last that the scar has faded and has gone away, to come again no more.

SHIRKING RESPONSIBILITY. You spend a lot of your time in railing at what you call the hypocrisy of those who take the lead in any undertaking.

You would not accept responsibility in the way of office or work of any kind because then you could not find time to sneer at those whom you call "the morons at the helm."

You don't acknowledge to yourself that any such reason actuates your criticisms but it is true that you would rather complain than work.

For instance, you won't go to the polls and vote.

You say that your little vote would not affect the general results.

But when your kind is multiplied by thousands, it makes all the difference between good results and bad ones.

For one thing, it is easier to take up a hue and cry than it is to study the reason for the dissenting voices.

You don't want to charge your mind with the difference between this or that one's attitude toward the questions of the day.

You follow the "bell-sheep."

If the bell sheep is going in the wrong direction, you don't know it. It's better to go slow in taking up others' opinions and study enough to evolve a few of your own.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

GIRLS OF THE CHORUS. They dream so much of greatness.

Poor tired girls

Who dance for hours upon their weary toes.

They would make famous those false yellow curls

By pleasing people in the theater rows.

I watch them struggling for the throng's acclaim
And wish them well, but oh, their path is hard!

I pity them because the gate to fame

I know against the most of them is barred.

They keep their printed notices in books.

Spin dreams of splendor which are mostly vain.

Suffer great hardships for the crowd which looks.

And seek applause with weariness and pain.

And always as I see them dancing there,

Struggling for favor ere they grow too old.

I seem to see the failure and despair
That wait nearby to crush the dreams they hold.

AS PUCK PUTS IT

It has been said that writers, as a rule, are poor business people. To go a step further, many business men believe that such newspapers as are known to be successful, financially, are successful not because of their business acumen, but in spite of their lack of it. Whether or not the newspapers merit these opinions, their attitude on the question of publishing radio programs tends to confirm them. The sale of advertising space is the main source of revenue for the newspaper, and yet, an incalculable amount of valuable space which should bring the newspapers a substantial return in money, space that rightfully belongs to the advertising department, is given away absolutely free. Not even a "thank you" do they get in return.

Indeed, they are scolded by the recipients of their favor, much as charitable persons are always being scolded by professional beggars for not handing out more dole.

It has been argued that the radio program is news. There is no denying this argument. But for every radio owner who looks for the radio program every day, there is a woman who looks for the day's bargains in the department stores. The one carries no more news interest than the other. Yet, the department stores pay a vast sum of money to the newspapers for printing their bargain news while the radio advertiser is not requested to pay even for the two or three lines of space his program announcement occupies. All of which would be bad enough business from any standpoint at which you may look at the matter, but when we face the added fact that the chief recipient of this valuable favor is the chief competitor of the newspaper—well, we must leave it to Puck to say what these newspaper mortals be.

Rate Decree Stirs Interest In Handicaps Of Rail Traffic

Necessity For Co-ordination Of All Forms Of Public Transportation Brought To Public Attention By Refusal To Authorize Reductions

Differences of opinion exists as to the justness of the ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission that freight rates should not be reduced at present. One point of dispute is as to whether reductions would increase the volume of traffic. The country is surprised that it would be disastrous to the roads to make a freight cut of ten per cent. It is also a matter of comment that the country are in such a position financially that even a 10 per cent reduction in rates would prevent most of them from paying fixed charges. The Commission says that general rate reductions would threaten the continuance of adequate service and add to unemployment and that the preservation of an adequate railroad, transportation machine is more important to the country than lowered freight rates. The decision leaves with the railroad a larger degree of management than the commission has been willing to permit in the past. If the management believes that it is good business or necessary to meet truck rates, it is left free to do this. In fact the railroads have been doing it for many months, but the difference between the railroads' policy and in doing this they are exercising the independent judgment of an owner or operator while Commission direction is by a regulatory body whose chief business is to see that the railroads charge only reasonable rates.

"The chief interest to the layman," thinks the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL, "lies in the finding of the Commission that the railroads of the country are in such a position financially that even a 10 per cent reduction in rates would prevent most of them from paying fixed charges. The Commission says that general rate reductions would threaten the continuance of adequate service and add to unemployment and that the preservation of an adequate railroad, transportation machine is more important to the country than lowered freight rates. The decision leaves with the railroad a larger degree of management than the commission has been willing to permit in the past. If the management believes that it is good business or necessary to meet truck rates, it is left free to do this. In fact the railroads have been doing it for many months, but the difference between the railroads' policy and in doing this they are exercising the independent judgment of an owner or operator while Commission direction is by a regulatory body whose chief business is to see that the railroads charge only reasonable rates."

"Rates on some classes of commodities," in the opinion of the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST, "are high enough to be an important factor in the price and a serious burden to producers, but the railroads themselves being just as badly off as any of the shippers, the decision of the Commission refusing general rate reductions was reasonable. The complaining shippers, chiefly farm, coal and lumber interests, are those more dependent on the railroads than almost any other class, and however hard their lot may be under existing freight rates, it would be a great deal harder if rates were reduced."

AND THE

Mud Puddles

HOW'S THIS?

Little Isaac was crying bitterly on one of the main streets of a big city. His sobs soon brought a large crowd about him. An elderly woman stepped from the crowd and placing an arm around the boy asked sympathetically: "What's the matter, my child? Are you lost?"

The boy sobbed for a moment, and then paused. He looked all around at the large audience he had assembled. Then, lifting up his voice he shouted loudly:

"Yes, ma'am, I'm lost. Will someone please take me home to Jacob Silverstein, the well-known clothier of the West End, who has just got in his winter stock of spring overcoats, suits, neckties, shirts, hats and umbrellas, which he will sell cheaper than anyone else in the city?"

Bible Thought

For Today

Whose hatred is covered by deceit, his wickedness shall be shewed before the whole congregation.—Proverbs 26:26.

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD (Copyright, 1933) Central Press

MONDAY, AUGUST 21

Notables Born This Date—William Murdock, b. 1754, Englishman, inventor of coal gas. In his twenties he became superintendent and engineer for James Watt, made a working model of a locomotive in 1784, or 30 years before George Stephenson perfected his first locomotive; invented a number of other devices, was the first to use compressed air to dispatch packages through tubes.
Claude Grahame-White, b. 1879, first English licensed aviator (1908), winner of the first Gordon Bennett airplane race trophy, pioneer constructor of planes and airports, virtually the only early aviator made wealthy.

1620—The Speedwell, bearing pilgrims from the Netherlands, and accompanying the Mayflower, set sail for America. Before it was out of the English Channel it was found to be leaking badly, was put in at Plymouth, and abandoned. On Sept. 6 the Mayflower started alone on its historic voyage to America with 74 men and 28 women aboard.

1762—Lady Mary Wortley Montagu died. The most beautiful and brilliant woman of her time, she wrote a classic series of Letters from Constantinople, where her husband was the British ambassador. More important, while in Turkey, she witnessed inoculation for smallpox and introduced the practice into England in 1718, when she had her infant son inoculated. (Edward Jenner, Englishman, perfected vaccination in 1798.)

1858—The debates of Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln began. They made the obscure Lincoln a national figure, led to his nomination for Presidency. The debates took place during Douglas' campaign for the election of an Illinois state legislature committed to his reelection as U. S. senator. (As is well known, senators were not chosen by popular vote until 1913.) Douglas upheld popular sovereignty; he maintained that the people of each territory should decide whether it should be a slave state or a free state. Lincoln's stand is best expressed in terms he used in a speech prior to the debates: "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

1914—Maurice Chevalier, noted French singing-actor, was wounded and captured by the Germans.

NEW MOON TONIGHT—

It won't have any effect upon you or upon the weather. There is no basis for Shakespeare's remark in Othello: "The moon is the fairer of the moon."

It is the very error of the Moon; She comes more nearer Earth than she was wont.

And makes men mad.

From the times of the ancient Greeks it has been believed by some peoples that the moon has a deleterious effect on the minds of humans and animals; hence lunatic, moonstruck, etc. Amongst weather superstitions one of the most prevalent is that which represents the moon as exercising a great influence. Proven as fallacies are the beliefs that the full moon clears away clouds; that various crops should be sown in the wane of the moon; that two full moons in a month will bring a flood; that a halo around the moon presages immediate rain.

Garden Is Maliciously Ruined By Intruder

One of the most vicious and malicious pieces of destruction heard of here at any time was that which took place Saturday night or early Sunday morning in the fine garden of Nazareno Scaramazza of 412 East Division street, a steel worker, who has been unemployed for 28 months.

The garden is located in Shenango township near the former Buckeye plant. The police were called to investigate Sunday afternoon. The destruction they found was not that of a person who was in want and sought to get some of the products in the garden but rather that of a person of the lowest calibre and without the least kindly thought in their mind.

A sickle or a sythe had evidently been used in a systematic method of destruction, cutting down practically all of the tomato plants full of tomatoes just ready to use, pepper plants filled with peppers, corn in ear, cabbage fully headed and ready for use and many other garden plants. Some idea of the method of destruction is indicated in the fact that the heads of cabbage were cut in two and all the destroyed garden products left, not a thing having been taken by the person causing the destruction.

That it was done with malicious forethought is the fact that this garden was located in the midst of other fine gardens and not a thing was molested in them.

As if Mr. Scaramazza was not unfortunate enough in being without work, it was learned today that his first planting of these various garden plants was killed with frost and the plants destroyed were his second planting.

And not only is Mr. Scaramazza deprived of much needed food products of his garden, but he has lost the result of many months of hard work.

The people of the district are aroused and so are the authorities and it will go hard with the offender, if caught.

THE PRESS AND THE NEW DEAL

By R. X. GRAHAM

Assistant Professor in Journalism, Westminster College.

Lacking professional status, journalists have been represented in N. R. A. code discussions by the American Newspaper Publishers Association for the most part. This organization, founded in 1887, together with such other organizations as the American Society of Newspaper Editors, is the nearest approach to making journalism a profession. In England, reporters and desk men belong to the National Union of Journalists, and the Society of Women Journalists. Publishers and proprietors of papers in Great Britain belong to the Institute of Journalists.

As many have pointed out, it is peculiar that in a nation so enthusiastic to draw up by-laws and elect a president, a vice-president, a secretary and treasurer, American newspaper workers have never organized. It is true that there is little time for the American reporter and desk man to spend attending meetings and annual conventions. It is just as true that the average American journalist spends more time at his work than does his English brother. But this is no argument against organizing. It is rather one reason for organization.

If American journalists, by which is meant the men who really make the newspaper—reporters and desk men—had been loudest and strongest in the N. R. A. code discussions and negotiations there may have been somewhat different emphasis placed upon the agreement involving newspapers. As it was, with the American Newspaper Publishers Association doing the talking, the discussions took the old turn of citing freedom of the press as guaranteed by the Constitution.

Now the press is not guaranteed half the freedom under the constitution that some people think and many others hope. The first amendment to the Constitution, which went into effect December 15, 1791, does not give a newspaper publisher any more freedom than every other private citizen of the nation enjoys. Newspapers have no right, therefore, to ask for any exceptions to adherence to blanket codes of the N. R. A.

The first amendment says: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people to peaceably assemble and to petition the government for a redress of their grievances."

"Freedom," it should be noted, is the right to express opinion. The right to print the news has never been given officially. Nor is this freedom guaranteed by other assemblies than congress, for state legislatures may abridge both freedom of speech and of the press and have done so on many occasions.

A study of state constitutions reveals the fact that not quite half guarantee the right to express opinions, one does not even mention the press, and only half make mention of the right to print the news of the day. It would seem, then, that in about half of the states it is doubtful whether newspapers have a constitutional right to print any news whatever, let alone news to which there might be any objection.

A few newspapers recognize these facts. When, therefore, the American Newspaper Publishers association protested that blanket codes were an abridgement of the freedom of the press, such papers as the Milwaukee Journal were truthful in pointing out the foolishness of such claims. An editorial in the Journal on July 25 says:

"A newspaper has two characters. In one it is undertaking to print the news as fully as it can get it and as honestly, often adding to this the obligation of commenting on that news as truthfully and wisely as human weakness permits."

"In fulfillment of this duty, a newspaper must fight for freedom of the press with its last breath, and if it lives up to its profession must expire when that freedom is foreclosed."

"In its other character a newspaper employs men and women, buys materials, sells its services and its product. We cannot see that in this character it is exempt in any degree from the duty of being a good citizen."

The Journal, following this statement of policy, added 57 employees to its payroll at an increased cost of almost $100,000 a year. The New York Daily News gave work to 34 additional men and raised salaries so that the "new deal" cost it about $1,000 a week more. Other papers all over the country signed the code by August 1. Others have signed since the revised code was submitted this week.

It seems that there was not so much a thought of defying President Roosevelt, not so much a desire to ask special privileges for the press, but a rather vague idea of what freedom of the press really meant and just what the guarantees for this freedom are under the Constitution which motivated the American Newspaper Publishers association. The general public wondered at first just where the newspapers were going. Now that the code has been signed, the public should know that the American press is as loyal in this as in all other great crises.

Loose Nuts Have Reunion Party

Loose Nuts Club Now Rather Well Scattered; Have Picnic Reunion

Those Loose Nuts, the boys who were "swimming fools" of New Wilmington junction several years back, now grown men most of them, held an enjoyable reunion at the Kretzel camp on last Friday evening.

The boys, rather well scattered now, were not all able to be present. Andy Hartman now in Cleveland, Joe Figuly in Gary, Ind., and Mike Schmidt and Alec Samuels were the absent ones. It was voted upon to make the picnic an annual affair and to try and have all of the members present at the meeting in 1934.

The following were present: Johnny Kraft of New York City, who has just concluded a vacation stay here; Billy Hood, Emil Durrer, "Wege" Genkinger, George Sadler, Paul Diller, "Oaty" Foster, Johnny Kretzer, Dave Marks and Gerald Newton. The last two named were not Loose Nuts members but were invited to the picnic.

The evening hours were spent informally with the boys telling many of their experiences since the camping days at Wilmington junction.

LOSES POCKETBOOK
Mrs. John Freed of 1025 Court street, reported to the police Saturday that while at the comfort station she laid her pocketbook down and on leaving forgot it. Discovering her loss about 15 minutes later she returned to the comfort station and found it gone. It contained $25 in cash, which represented a considerable loss to Mrs. Freed.

But all too often "born free and equal" means, "born free from brains and equal to a jassack."

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

MISS THADEN says: "Flying is a terrific strain at times. I frankly don't know what I should do without cigarettes. But I've found that different cigarettes have different effects on my nerves. For some years I've smoked Camels. They taste better. They're much milder. And I've noticed that they never upset my nerves."

MISS MARSAIS says: "I started smoking Camels because most of my friends who were flyers seemed to prefer them. I've never changed because I can't afford to take chances with my nervous system."

Relief More Costly In Pennsylvania

June Data Shows State Cost Higher Than In Country As Whole

By ARTHUR C. WILSON
Special Washington correspondent
New Castle News
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—To judge from June data, family relief is apparently more costly in Pennsylvania than in the nation in general.

The Federal Emergency Relief Commission reports that Pennsylvania expenditures of public money on family relief in June totaled $7,601,954. Through such disbursements, 409,535 families were aided. This showed an average of $18.56 per family helped.

Such disbursements of public money for family relief in the country as a whole, on the other hand, averaged only $17.59.

FREAK STORM ON COAST COSTS SIX LIVES

Victims Of Sea Being Hunted

Storm Suddenly Breaks In Atlantic City Area Late Sunday

MANY SMALL BOATS REPORTED WRECKED

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—Over tumbling seas strewn with the wreckage of small sailing craft, coast guard ships and airplanes today pressed a hunt for additional victims of a freak storm which hurled down on the New Jersey and Long Island coasts, taking the lives of at least six persons, kicking up mountainous seas and playing havoc with fishing and pleasure craft.

Exact number of dead was still uncertain early today. Thirty-one vessels were accounted for this morning and at least 300 persons had been brought in to the Cape May coast guard station. But six more boats were still reported missing and it was feared the death toll from the storm would mount to 10 more.

Known Dead
The known dead were listed early today as:
Wilbur Lumens, Philadelphia, manager of the Philadelphia National League ball park; drowned when a motorboat capsized off Corson's Inlet.

Joseph Muller, Union City, N. J., drowned off Rockaway Point, L. I., when he disregarded life guards' warnings against venturing into the surf.

Captain Theodore Van Sant, veteran Atlantic City fishing skipper, drowned when his boat, the Etta, capsized off this city.

Louis Williams, Ventnor, N. J., drowned when the fishing vessel, Goldie R., capsized off Longport Inlet.

Harry R. Schmidt, Camden, N. J., drowned when the fishing vessel, Anna M., capsized off Longport Inlet.

Captain John Brunner, Oarmora, N. J., drowned with Lukens.

Storm Breaks Suddenly
The northeast, breaking suddenly, spent most of its fury along the Jersey coast from Atlantic City to Ocean City, after battering the Long Island shore and coastal section. Along the Jersey coast small craft were picked up and tossed ashore like driftwood, battered by mountainous rollers or overturned before they could seek shelter.

Scores of thrilling rescues were reported along the coast. At Ocean City a giant wave thundered on the beach, washing 25 persons from the sands. All were brought out safely by lifeguards. A similar comber rolled in here, pounding a crowd of sunbathers and seriously injuring P. H. Gerner, 22, of Drexel Hill, Pa. He suffered a fractured spine.

Warning Given
Off Ocean City a fleet of 20 fishing craft were hoove to as the storm approached. An airplane carrying Captain J. H. Allen, owner of the fleet, sped over and dropped a bottle containing a warning of the approaching storm. The entire fleet put about and made port safely at Cape May after a 35-mile run before the howling wind.

More than a score of persons aboard still unlocated boats were listed as "missing" today. Coast guards said at least half a dozen vessels, unwilling to venture into the pounding surf at inlets along the coast, had run to sea to wait out the blow. At an early hour none of them had been sighted and it was feared some had foundered, with possible additional casualties.

Search for the missing craft was being pressed over a wide area.

Immense Crowds Attend Circus

Thousands Gather At Hagenbeck-Wallace Performances On Saturday

Whatever the capacity of the huge Hagenbeck-Wallace "big top" is, the attendance figures Saturday night were very close to it, for with the exception of one small section of seats, the tent was filled to the limit. It was the biggest circus crowd in years in New Castle, and the size of the crowd can probably be attributed to three things, the quality of the performance, the splendid weather and the central location of the site used.

Nor was the crowd in the afternoon far behind the night crowd. New Castle was circus hungry, it seemed, and the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows satisfied that hunger with a real performance. Clyde Beatty, "Poodles" Hanneford, the Clarksons, "Cheerful" Gardner, the Villietts, these and a score of other featured players gave the customers what they wanted, a circus of thrills.

From the opening pageant to the Roman race that closed the show, the crowd was satisfied. The cynic who believes that circuses have lost their charm should have been on South Mill street Saturday and seen for himself the answer. Circuses will be popular as long as adults do not forget their youth and they haven't forgotten it yet, fortunately.

Six Are Killed, 33 Injured In Auto Accidents

Week-End Toll Of Highway Crashes Placed At Six; Traffic Parade Heavy

THREE PEDESTRIANS ARE AMONG VICTIMS

(International News Service)
Six deaths and 33 injuries today were added to Pennsylvania's list of highway accidents, the traffic toll of a week-end's driving beneath pleasant skies.

Perfect weather for the two-day period and the possible effects of an increased holiday under the NRA brought large numbers of drivers into the traffic parade and magnified the normal hazards of city and country driving.

Pittsburgh, Altoona and Williamsport were the only localities to report fatalities. Three of the six persons killed were pedestrian victims.

List of Accidents
The accident toll follows:
Pittsburgh—Two nine-year-old boys killed in separate but similar truck accidents. William Sikora, of Duquesne, ran in front of truck; George Baird, of East McKeesport, jostled off another truck and fell beneath its wheels. Both boys died of fractured skulls. Twelve other persons injured, one seriously, in seven traffic accidents.

Altoona—Mary Wilson, 19, Gratzville, instantly killed and Alberta, Bailey, 19, also of Gratzville, fatally injured when struck by an automobile driven by Charles Wicks, Altoona, police officer. The girls were walking the highway near Tyone.

Philadelphia—Six were injured in two automobile accidents within the city limits.

Harrisburg—Eight persons injured in Harrisburg and vicinity. Russell Van Horn, Jr., seven, seriously injured when he darted in front of the automobile of George L. Dally, Jr., Middletown, according to reports.

Elizabethtown—Three persons injured, two critically, in a collision of two automobiles east of here. Mrs. Theresa Trintle, 67, Wilkes-Barre, and David O. Thomas, Harrisburg, were the most seriously hurt.

Williamsport—Harry S. Lauer, 72, secretary of the Williamsport lodge of Elks, was fatally hurt and three other persons riding with him, including his wife, were injured, when their car left the highway and plunged over a 15-foot embankment near Muncy Valley.

Emporium—Dorothy Streich was killed when thrown through the windshield of a small coupe as she was returning from a party at Ridgeway, given in honor of her nineteenth birthday.

FINDS SOUVENIR
Mr. Fred H. Pres.
New Castle News Co.
Dear Sir:

When but an idle boy the fall of 1865 having occasion to go to my father's writing desk, found a little book which had been presented to him by the Sanitary Commission now known as the Red Cross, while at Camp Copland.

On the fly leaf was written the following:
In front of Petersburg, Va. Mar., 1865.

A darkey woman did agree,
To wash a wollen shirt for me;
I was to call when it was done
About the setting of the sun.

The time arrived to get my duds
As supposed, fresh from the suds;
I asked the darkey if it was dry
To my question she made reply.

"Spect it am suh, bout this time,"
And straightway took it off the line;
Rolled it up all very nice
And said "Ten cents am jist the price."

I paid the price and off I set
To find the shirt had never been wet.

This is as true as gospel.

Motions and petitions presented to Judge James A. Chambers were as follows:

Petition of Robert K. Wilson, for whom the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company is guardian, for an allowance of $300 to attend Thiel College. Granted.

In the estate of Betty Kirker, who was left $500 by the will of her grandfather, who died at Zelienople, the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company, guardian, was authorized to accept five shares of stock in the Ellwood City Building and Loan in lieu of cash, as difficulty has been experienced in converting the estate into cash.

An amended statement of claim was filed in the case of Walter Forney against the News Company, growing out of an auto accident of Fred Roebuck, Ellwood City representative of The News.

Motion for judgment was granted in the case of the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company against John B. Thorson and others.

"I am so happy—the last pimple is gone"

—because pimples tend to thrive when normal resistance is lacking, your first thought should be to build up your blood structure... the way to do this is by increasing the red blood-cells and their hemoglobin content... this will permit a greater oxygen intake—from the lungs—into the blood and tissues—including the skin... nourishment will be better converted into energy and tissue repair... body cells, which fight against micro-organisms (pimple germs) will be strengthened.

Then why not try S.S.S.—the proven tonic for decades? Proved effective by extensive scientific research and by millions of happy users. You too, may have a clear skin. Get S.S.S. at any drug store. The big 20 oz. size is more economical and is good for a two weeks' treatment. © The S.S.S. Co.

what about cleaning PRICES

CLEANING
Prices are higher. Economical people are making every effort to secure better cleaning—cleaning that will last longer. The variation in quality of cleaning is just as pronounced as the variation in quality of clothes. Doesn't it seem reasonable to believe that a concern such as Fish which has lived and progressed for so many years under one management can offer maximum value.

Qualifying Ends For Munny Title

Pairings Will Be Made Today For Championship Round For City Golf Title

With the qualifying rounds for the Municipal golf title ending Sunday, the drawings will be made today for the championship round, which will probably take the next two weeks to complete.

Some of the players have been blazing their way over the Munny course around par, and some interesting matches will take place, as the cream of the city's golfers meet to determine who will hold the title.

Munny Champion William M. Nunn, the defending titleholder, promises to be right in there until the finish, having been shooting spectacular golf this summer. He has a number of challengers to test his mettle, however.

Contestants must play two games a week so that the championship round will not be delayed and run too far into the month of September.

Robert Thompson of Ellwood City was medalist in the qualifying round, with 150 for the 36 holes, while the defending champion, W. M. Nunn, played the best round of 18 holes, with a 71, two under par for the course.

The pairings are announced by Manager William O. Fleming of the Municipal course, as follows:

Walter Vogan vs. Ray Solomon.
Willie Grommes vs. Joe Pannella.
William Twaddle vs. James Geddiss.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

LEFT THUMB SHOULD NOT PRESS OR REST AGAINST CLUB

ALEX. MORRISON says: When golfers generally know more about the proper function of the left hand in swinging a club they'll give up the practice of pressing against the shaft with the left thumb.

Even at this time there are quite a few players bold enough to place their left thumb around the shaft.

However, these players seem rather uncertain about letting the thumb go all the way around the club.

Unless all pressure against the shaft by this thumb is eliminated the left hand and wrist cannot function properly.

The only way this can be done is by letting the thumb encircle the shaft.

Podunk is a derivative name for any small, out-of-the-way country town or village.

Boston Braves Climbing Fast

Manager Bill McKechnie Has Installed Fight Into Boston Braves

GIANTS-SENATORS PENNANT BOUND

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—So they took the $50,000 and bought a winning ball club.

That seems to be the story of those amazing Boston Braves, who came from nowhere in the National league until they are in a virtual tie for second place with the Pittsburgh Pirates, seven and a half games behind the New York Giants. Since August 1 the Braves have won 15 out of 19 games.

What was the matter with the Braves had no angles that a list saw puzzle until they wheeled the bag of gold over to Philadelphia and exchanged it for Whitney and Lee, a couple of socking gents, who made healthy hits grow where nothing but foul balls seemed to thrive before.

Whitney, third baseman, made the Braves infield click like an electric refrigerator and with Lee in the left garden the tribe got some much needed hitting. The new deal worked wonders all around, indeed, for Wes Schulmerich, who with Knothe, was thrown in along with the $50,000 just to sweeten the pot, has proved a hitting sensation in Philadelphia's band box park. He only hit 260 in 1932, but in Philly his high flies drop right over the fence.

Whitney got three hits and Lee two yesterday as the Bostonians beat the Pirates 5 to 4 in 11 innings and then came back in the vesper to triumph again 8 to 1. Wally Berger sent out his 21st home run and Ben Cantwell, with the nightcapper was his 17th pitching success.

Hal Schumacher achieved his 14th victory in chasing the Chicago Cubs with seven hits. The score was 6 to 1 and gave the Giants the biggest lead they have enjoyed since they outdistanced themselves by first taking the league lead.

Two other boys the fans will feast their eyes upon are Nick Galore of New Kensington and Rich Gregory a classy youngster from Butler. They scale at 122 pounds.

George Sharf, the husky German boy from New Kensington has registered to box Jack Virgilia and Frank Cahanese of Rochester and Jimmy Hightower of New Kensington, 160, will meet.

Yarosz-Dundee Fight Tonight

World Middleweight Title At Stake Tonight In Battle At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—Teddy Yarosz and Vince Dundee battle ten rounds or less at Forbes Field here tonight for the Pennsylvania state version of the world middleweight championship.

Before earning recognition as world champions nationally, to-night's winner must own a victory over Gorilla Jones, Akron negro, or Lou Brouillard, the Frenchman, N. B. A. and New York state middleweight champions, respectively. An opportunity to achieve this, it is reported, will be part of the prize going to the state titlist as plans are said to be in the making to match one or the other boy with Brouillard.

Easily the most publicized fight in Pittsburgh fight history and one of the biggest ever promoted in Pennsylvania, the Dundee-Yarosz battle is expected to be put on before a crowd of about 40,000 from throughout Pennsylvania and five other eastern states.

Fred Shaffer Wins First Game

Pitches Wheeling To 6-2 Victory Over Huntington Club

Fred Shaffer, local boy who was recently purchased by the New York Yankees and sent to the Wheeling club of the Middle Atlantic league, made his debut as a pitcher in that circuit recently by capturing an 8-2 triumph over the Huntington club.

For six innings Shaffer held Huntington scoreless. In the seventh inning Huntington rallied its first run. Shaffer yielded but eight hits. According to word received by the writer, Shaffer impressed the Wheeling manager. The West Virginia pilot said that with more experience the local hurler will be one of the best fingers in the league.

It was learned today that Shaffer will probably report to the spring training camp of the Yankees next spring. Shaffer pitched for the New Castle University who defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1. He allowed the Pirates two hits. Immediately after the contest he was signed up by the Yankees.

Mushball League Meeting Tonight

Tonight at nine o'clock at the "Y." the East Side mushball league managers and officials will hold a very important meeting. The second half of the season is just starting and it is important that several matters be discussed. All managers are asked to try and be present. Vital matters to all teams will be thrashed out. President Walther will be in charge of the meeting.

Football Season Just Month Away

New Castle's First Night Game Will Be Played At Taggart Field September 15

Football season is fast approaching. In fact it is just one month away. New Castle High will open their 1933 season at Taggart Field on the night of September 15, which brings Braddock High to New Castle.

New Castle High gridders will probably make for Muddy Creek Falls camp next Sunday and then spend a week with Head Coach Philip Bridenbaugh. Assistant Coaches Klee and Thomas, and Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner.

Tough Schedule

Coach Bridenbaugh is pessimistic over the 1933 outlook. To quote the popular coach: "We have one of the toughest schedules in the history of the school to face this fall, and we have lost a lot of fine material, but we will do our best."

Scott High of Toledo, one of the strongest high school teams in the country will be at New Castle this fall, rounding out a schedule of games that will take the local boys out of town on three week-ends. Turtle Creek, Charleroi and New Kensington will be met on foreign soil.

Helen Wills Is Facing Task In Tennis Singles

Either Helen Jacobs or Dorothy Round Will Meet Coast Star In Finals

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The great Moody tottered on her throne today.

Invincible for seven long years, Queen Helen's iron grip on the royal tennis sceptre has finally been shaken so convincingly by the bludgeoning forehead and tremendous power of British Betty Nuthall that tomorrow's national championship final at Forest Hills may see Mrs. Moody beaten for the first time since "Iron Mollie" Mallory turned the trick at Rye back in 1928.

This afternoon's semi-final between Helen Jacobs, defending titleholder, and Dorothy Round, English Sunday School teacher who wouldn't play on the Sabbath, may determine the great Moody's fate. If Helen the second, rested by the two-day respite after her gruelling battle with Josephine Crickshank, repeats her Wightman cup triumph over Miss Round, then Queen Helen will reign for another year. She has the "Indian Sign" on Princess Helen; the odds will be ten to one on Mrs. Moody with the Helens meeting again.

If the Union Jack is run up atop the Horseshoe stadium of the West Side Tennis Club after today's match, however, you can look for some more fireworks in the finals. Miss Round has the game to beat the great Moody. She socks a ball almost as hard as "Bouncing Betty," she has even better control, and she is much more at home at the net than her teammate. The Moody who wavered so badly yesterday won't beat the round who whipped Sarah Palfrey twice in a row.

Many Activities At Field Club Course

There will be three events of major importance at the golf course of the New Castle Field Club during the present week.

The first of these will be a mixed foursome Tuesday evening for the members of the club.

Wednesday evening, a group of the members of the Kiwanis Club will stage an evening of golf.

Saturday, the lawyers of Lawrence, Butler, Mercer and Beaver counties will meet in competition.

New Bedford Wins From Merchants

Lutz And Balla Hammered While Lucas Proves Effective

New Bedford defeated the East New Castle Merchants 10 to four Saturday at New Bedford. New Bedford collected 13 hits off Lutz and Balla. Lucas was effective in the pinches. Merchants played ragged ball behind their hurlers.

UP FEW POINTS

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The stock market forged ahead today, reversing the decline at the close of the week, as buying interest was stimulated by better news over the weekend and a further decline in the dollar.

Early gains ran to 4 points but these cut down by profit-taking before the end of the first hour. Grains opened firm and then reacted. This checked the advance and brought an irregular appearance to the list. Trading turned dull on the self-off.

The liquor issues and oils were the best performers. While the petroleum list was in persistent demand on the provision in the oil code giving the president power to control production and prices.

Utilities were an early exception to the improvement. The rate cut ordered in this state brought some scattered selling at the opening but this was quickly absorbed and small gains were chalked up.

Aircraft Carriers Will Tour Globe

Here are the three United States Navy airplane carriers which will take part in the round-the-world cruise, plans for which were recently revealed in Washington. Upper is an unusual view of the bow of the Lexington. In center is the Saratoga with a brood of eagles roosting on her deck, and at bottom the Ranger, which is expected to be completed this Fall. The proposed cruise would involve stops at nearly 100 cities, where aerial maneuvers would be undertaken. This would be the first time since the regime of the first President Roosevelt that an American naval squadron would make such a trip.

CROMBIE ALLEN
HOLD-UP VICTIM

Injured By Bandit In Los Angeles—Companion Also Wounded

Word has been received here by Miss Josephine Allen of 505 Wildwood avenue of a holdup and shooting in Los Angeles, Calif., on August 17, in which Crombie Allen, former Butler newspaper publisher was shot and a companion probably blinded.

Mr. Allen is the donor of the Allen peace prize which is given each year in Grove City college for the best essay on "Peace". Coincidentally Miss Josephine Allen, who is a niece of the donor, won the medal last year. Some years ago Mr. Allen went to California where he established a paper in Ontario, Calif., which he sold later. He is now devoting his time to writing and speaking and promotional efforts, one of his projects being the Los Angeles Olympiad held in 1932.

With Miss Cora B. Withington, a school teacher of Los Angeles, Mr. Allen was riding home from the theatre on August 17 when a bandit car pulled up alongside and ordered the occupants to hand over what they had. Mr. Allen handed over $18 in cash and Miss Withington her purse. Enraged at the small return, the bandit tore the wrist watches from their arms and then started firing.

One bullet struck Miss Withington in the cheek, passing through the eye socket and injuring both her eyes. Physicians say they may be able to save the sight of the right eye.

A bullet struck Mr. Allen in the throat and chin wounding him severely but not seriously.

He was in New Castle a short time ago on his way home from the Boston convention of the Rotary international in which he takes an active part.

Through Bert Hillman and Frank First, well known Pennsylvania passenger conductors, Mr. Middleton was presented with a fine white gold 32 degree Masonic ring, in which there is a diamond set and a substantial purse of money, in behalf of the Pennsylvania Passenger conductors and trainmen of the E. & A. division. Slippery Rock Man Returns From Visit To Potato Regions

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Aug. 21.—Thomas Denniston of Slippery Rock, well known Butler county potato grower who has more than once walked away with the state's highest honors in that department at the state farm product show, returned today from a five-day tour into the central northwest.

With Mrs. Denniston he was a member of a special party of Pennsylvania potato growers who traveled into Minnesota and North Dakota to study production methods.

He was particularly interested in the seed growing practices in these states since he is raising several thousand bushels of seed annually on his farm at Slippery Rock. Growers of the northwest, he said, have suffered from one of the driest seasons on record. Harvesting is beginning at an unusually early date with many crops not exceeding fifty bushels to the acre.

The famous Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota was the main objective of the tour and was by far the most interesting country seen on the entire trip. The country is extremely level and 200 and 300-acre potato fields were common.
